HURRICANE SEASON 2010

'EXTREME' SEASON FEARED

The 2010 Atlantic hurricane season will produce above-average storms. The hurricane season will be particularly dire this year, given high ocean temperatures, which will necessitate our stepping up operations to be prepared for the high number of requests for disaster aid shipping/storage assistance. We expect that if Haiti is hit by a hurricane, or even intense rainfall—very likely prospects given the predictions surrounding this year's hurricane season—the country will experience thousands more deaths in addition to those already experienced.

FREE PREPOSITIONING & STAGING WAREHOUSE

While we hope that this hurricane season will prove to be less active than predicted, we all know that natural disasters will inevitably strike—suddenly and horrifically—somewhere in the region. Therefore AmericasRelief Team and corporate partner LAPARKAN, have arranged for the use of a prepositioning and staging warehouse at no cost to NGOs. Please contact us for details.
